As cellphones become smarter, they also become more useful. We can now take pictures, play games, browse the Internet, buy plane tickets, and much more. We spend more and more time glued to our hand-held devices. The more things we can do with them, the harder it becomes to put them down. What has made us addicted to our phones? Here are some factors.

One of the reasons why we become addicted to smartphones is the apps. Apps let us send instant messages to our friends. Throughout the day, we keep checking our phones to see if we have gotten replies to messages we have sent or if someone has “liked” a photo we have shared. When we don’t see any reply, we get impatient and sometimes even angry. Nevertheless, we can’t stop ourselves from checking.

Another factor is the inconvenience of computers. Most of us now have computers at home. When we are out of the house, we simply can’t use them. But smartphones? We take them everywhere. Go anywhere, and you will see whole groups of people sitting together. They’re all on their phones, not even talking to each other.

Smartphones have changed our lives for the better in some ways, but they have their drawbacks, too. For the most part, checking our phones once in a while is not a big deal. However, there are also times when we should interact with the people around us. The most important thing to remember is this: Pay more attention to the people around you.

- (D) 1. What is the main idea of the first paragraph?
- (A) The cost of a cellphone call is getting higher now.
 - (B) There are several stages in the history of cellphones.
 - (C) One reason why people are addicted to cellphones is the apps.
 - (D) The more functions cellphones have, the more time people spend on them.
- (A) 2. Which of the following statements is true?
- (A) People are often seen using their cellphones when they get together.
 - (B) It is quite easy for people to break their addiction to their cellphones.
 - (C) People use their computers for all kinds of things, even outside their homes.
 - (D) People seldom pay attention to whether they get any replies to their messages.
- (C) 3. What is the purpose of the last paragraph?
- (A) To let people know how useful cellphones are.
 - (B) To warn people not to use electronic devices too often.
 - (C) To remind people to pay more attention to those around them.
 - (D) To encourage people to interact with others through cellphones.

Addicted to LOL

Several times I went to you, but you were not home
 All the time I stayed with you
 You were playing LOL*
 They told me “hero or enemy” is your new role
 And I know you’re not in my league anymore

Your mind is not your own
 Your heart beats, your finger moves
 Another phone is what it takes
 You can't sleep, you can't eat
 There's no doubt, you're in deep online
 Your throat is tight, you can't breathe

I thought that you could stay away from that stuff
 The truth is you couldn't get enough
 I know I have to face it, you're addicted to it
 It's me from whom you stay away

*LOL is the name of an online game, “League of Legends.”
